ALL-SIS VIPs for the 2007 AALL Annual Meeting

ALL-SIS will be hosting two VIPs during the 2007 AALL Annual Meeting:

- Allen Easley, President and Dean of William Mitchell College of Law and the current Chair of the ABA Questionnaire Committee
- Dan Freehling, formerly Professor of Law and Associate Dean for Information Services at the Pappas Law Library at Boston University and the current Deputy Consultant of the ABA Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar

On Sunday morning, July 15th, they will attend our business meeting and briefly address us on recent ABA developments affecting academic law libraries, including changes to the annual questionnaire and findings of the recent ABA Task Force on Accreditation. That evening they will join us at our reception at Loyola Law School.

The AALL VIP program offers an opportunity for us to “learn by sharing, discussing, and collaborating in the wider community affected by information management and technology issues.” Please make a point of welcoming our distinguished guests and let them know your suggestions and concerns.

Newer Academic Law Librarian's Meeting (NALLM) to be held at Annual Meeting

Are you a newer academic law librarian or do you know somebody who is new to the field? If so, then this event is for you. The Academic Law Libraries Special Interest Section (ALL-SIS) is pleased to present the Newer Academic Law Librarian's Meeting (NALLM) to help introduce newer academic law librarians to the field. Do yourself a favor and mark this event on your Annual Meeting calendar and allow yourself a proper introduction to academic law librarianship. Members of the NALLM/Mentoring Committee and the ALL-SIS Board will discuss common questions and concerns raised by new academic law librarians. The Panel discussion will be followed by an open discussion/question and answer session and small breakout groups. If you are new to the field, you won't want to miss all of the inside scoop on trends in academic law librarianship or tips on getting more involved with ALL-SIS.

- Sunday, July 15, 5:30 p.m. – 6:30 p.m. *see below for 4:45 p.m. departure information
- Loyola University of New Orleans College of Law
- Busses will be departing at 4:45 p.m. from the Convention Center's Hall A exit on Convention Center Blvd.
- Sponsored by BNA

The event is conveniently scheduled right before the ALL-SIS Reception and Awards Ceremony, allowing newer members the opportunity to become acquainted prior to this gathering. Both events will be held at the Loyola University of New Orleans College of Law. Always an effective "ice-breaker," NALLM provides the newest members of ALL-SIS and their mentors a chance to learn more about ALL-SIS, network with colleagues, and make new friends. We hope to see you all there!

Please RSVP prior to July 13th via email to Katie Thompson at katie.thompson@lls.edu.

Katie Thompson, Co-Chair for NALLM/Mentoring Committee
Patricia Kidd, Co-Chair for NALLM/Mentoring Committee

Directions to Loyola Law Library

Loyola University New Orleans College of Law Library is located at 526 Pine Street. The College of Law is located on the Broadway Campus of Loyola University, about four blocks from the main campus. The Law Library entrance is on the first floor of the College of Law building, at the St. Charles Avenue end of the building.

Taxi:
The College of Law building is at 526 Pine Street, between the blocks of St. Charles Avenue and Dominican Street. Pine Street is one block off Broadway Street and runs parallel to it.

From downtown by car:
Take St. Charles Avenue toward the uptown area. You pass the Loyola and Tulane campuses on your right and Audubon Park on your left. The next stop light is Broadway Street, but you cannot turn left there. Continue two blocks to Lowerline, make a u-turn, and drive back to Broadway. Turn right on Broadway, right again on Dominican Street, and right again on Pine Street. The College of Law is in the large white building on your left. You may park in the lot directly across the street, as well as in a small lot next to the College of Law.

From downtown by St. Charles Avenue bus:
The St. Charles Avenue streetcar is not yet running all the way uptown, so you must take the St. Charles Avenue bus. Check with your concierge for the closest stop to your hotel. Otherwise you can catch the bus at Carondelet and Canal Street. Ask the driver to let you off at the stop closest to Pine Street. On Sundays, the bus runs approximately every 20 minutes until 6:00 p.m. when it begins running every 30 minutes. The bus schedule is listed online at www.norta.com.

Bus Information for Sunday, July 15, 2007
New Academic Law Librarians Meeting (NALLM) and
ALL-SIS Reception and Awards

For the NALLM program:

One bus will leave the Ernest N. Morial Convention Center Hall A at the Convention Center Blvd. exit at 4:45 pm.

For the reception:

Buses will depart from the Convention Center's Hall A exit at the Convention Center Blvd. exit between 6:00 - 6:45 pm.

Buses will return to both the Convention Center and the Hilton beginning at 8:00 p.m. and continue until the close of the reception.

ALL-SIS Sponsored Programs & Workshop

Below is a list of programs that will be sponsored by ALL-SIS at the annual meeting in New Orleans in 2007. Ten programs will be included in the AMPC programs, including one workshop, and two will be run as alternate programs, for a total of twelve ALL-SIS sponsored programs.

AMPC Programs

A-1: Public Services in the 21st Century: Beyond Traditional Reference Service

Sunday, July 15, 1:30–2:45PM
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Public services librarians in academic, public and firm libraries
Level: Intermediate

As institutions strive to meet patron needs in innovative ways, the culture of the reference interview is changing from a face-to-face and one-on-one transaction to a quick I.M. or an impersonal query of reference bot. This panel discussion features law librarians from academic, public, and firm libraries who authored chapters exploring the future of reference service in the forthcoming book: Public Services in the 21st Century: Evolution and Innovation. Speakers will share their experiences providing high-quality reference service through novel means in different types of libraries. The balance between cutting edge technology and the preservation of important aspects of the traditional reference transaction in the electronic environment will be explored. The book's co-editor will relate innovation in other aspects of public services to the 21st century reference interview.

- Lee F. Peoples, Coordinator and Moderator, Oklahoma City University Law Library
- Roy Balleste, University of the District of Columbia, David A. Clarke Law Library
- Barbara A. Bintliff, University of Colorado Law Library, William A.Wise Law Library
- Anna Cherry, Minnesota State Law Library
- Mark E. Estes, Holme Roberts & Owen LLP

A-7: Librarians, Vendors, or Both? Who Should Be Teaching Westlaw® and LexisNexis® to First-Year Law Students?

Sunday, July 15, 1:30–2:45PM
Competency: Teaching
Target Audience: Primarily academic law librarians, but also other law librarians who work with law students
Level: Intermediate

Law librarians who teach legal research are confronted with an important question:

Who should teach first-year law students about Westlaw® and LexisNexis®. A recent informal survey suggests that law schools are almost evenly divided between using vendor representatives, relying on library staff, or a combination of both. What are the factors that predispose a school toward one of these approaches? What works, what doesn't? How can librarians evaluate the effectiveness of the competing approaches? This program will address these critical questions.

- Stefanie Pearlman, Coordinator and Speaker, University of Nebraska–Lincoln, Marvin & Virginia Schmid Law Library
- Matthew Novak, Moderator, University of Nebraska–Lincoln, Marvin & Virginia Schmid Law Library
- Joseph Gerken, The University at Buffalo, State University of New York
- Ronald E. Jones, Jr., University of Cincinnati College of Law, Robert S. Marx Law Library
- Sheri H. Lewis, University of Chicago D'Angelo Law Library

B-1: They Rose to the Challenge: Public Librarians Take On the USA PATRIOT Act Through Doe v. Gonzales

Sunday, July 15, 3:00–4:00PM
Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Law librarians who are interested in Constitutional privacy issues; government documents librarians who are interested in lawsuits involving the federal government; librarians who may receive questions concerning privacy of library records
Level: Advanced

Four Connecticut librarians were recipients of a National Security Letter (NSL) demanding library records. Such letters are accompanied by a perpetual gag order, preventing the librarians from talking about the impact of Section 505 of the USA PATRIOT Act on library users. They became plaintiffs in Doe v. Gonzales, argued by the ACLU before Federal District Court Judge Janet C. Hall. The Department of Justice (DOJ) subsequently dropped the request for information. Participants in the legal battle will discuss the gag order, the case and the USA PATRIOT Act's Section 505.What is the significance of the DOJ dropping the request for information?

- April L. Schwartz, Coordinator and Moderator, Touro College
- Melissa Goodman, ACLU
- George Christian, Library Connections Inc.

B-7: Blogs, Working Papers, Electronic Publishing: Will Changes in Legal Scholarship Affect the Future Development of Library Collections?

Sunday, July 15, 3:00–4:00PM
Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Academic law librarians
Level: Advanced

Legal scholarship once consisted of treatises, monographs, and law review articles. Today, scholarship finds its audience first on the Internet as working papers and then in open-access law reviews; scholarly dialogue is carried on in blogs rather than in symposia. More law professors write for a larger audience—other academics and the public, as well as the law school tenure committee. How is this environment changing legal scholarship and the responsibilities of law libraries to make a permanent record of it? A law professor and a law librarian will address these issues from the perspectives of the writer, law school and library. Participants will be able to analyze changes in the production and publication of legal scholarship and assess needs for revision in collection development policies in response.

Margaret A. Schilt, Coordinator and Moderator, University of Chicago D'Angelo Law Library

- Gordon Russell, Charleston School of Law
- Lawrence B. Solum, University of Illinois College of Law

C-4: Rising to the Leadership Challenge Outside Your Library: Being a Leader in the Larger Organization

Sunday, July 15, 4:15–5:15PM
Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: All librarians
Level: Advanced

Librarians, especially those with supervisory and management responsibilities, are leaders within their libraries. The skills used to run the library transfer well within the larger organization. Two librarians who have assumed significant leadership roles within their organizations—a large law firm and a major university—present case studies of their expanded responsibilities and how their training as librarians created and supported these new opportunities. They will demonstrate their decision-making processes that led to their accepting the new responsibilities, and critique the outcomes of their decisions.

- Carol Bredemeyer, Coordinator and Moderator, Northern Kentucky University, Salmon P. Chase College of Law Library
- Barbara A. Bintliff, University of Colorado Law Library,William A. Wise Law Library
- Marianne E. Maher, Plunkett & Cooney, PC

D-7: Instructional Technology in Teaching Legal Research: Tricks of the Trade in the Real and Virtual Classroom

Monday, July 16, 8:45AM–10:15PM
Competency: Teaching
Target Audience: Academic law librarians who teach introductory or advanced legal research; private law librarians involved in training and/or CLE
Level: Intermediate

Librarians are all teachers. The range of teaching activities extends from organized law school research courses to working with individual lawyers and students in mastering new databases and search techniques. Instructional technologies present many new formats and opportunities for meeting the research training needs of students and professionals. Such technologies can also help librarians address the problem of not having enough staff to do all the desired teaching. This session will feature the approaches taken by several librarians to implement new technologies in various instructional settings. The panelists will address and demonstrate asynchronous learning methods such as Web-based courses (TWEN or Blackboard) using techniques including CALI lessons, Captivate/Camtasia or similar presentations, alone or in combination with synchronous methods such as videoconferencing and virtual office hours. The panelists will also discuss the issues that arise in supervising and evaluating course work in distance education courses.

- Susan Herrick, Coordinator and Moderator, University of Maryland at Baltimore, Thurgood Marshall Law Library
- Judith Ford Anspach, Indiana University School of Law–Indianapolis
- Kristen M. Baginski, University of Maryland at Baltimore, Thurgood Marshall Law Library
- Maryanne Gerber, Golden Gate University, School of Law Library

E-1: Rise to the Challenge of Publishing

Monday, July 16, 10:30–11:30AM

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Academic directors, those aspiring to become directors, and all law librarians interested in publishing
Level: Intermediate

Publishing in the professional literature is an expectation for academic law library directors and others seeking promotion and tenure or its equivalent. Publishing also represents a service to the professions in which many librarians would like to participate. This program will provide information from the experts on topic selection, developing the topic and writing the article, where and how to submit papers, and what to expect during the editorial process.

- Barbara A.West, Coordinator and Moderator, Western New England College School of Law Library
- Michael G. Chiorazzi, University of Arizona College of Law Library
- Penny A. Hazelton, University of Washington Gallagher Law Library
- Frank G. Houdek, Southern Illinois University Law Library

I-4: Responding to Legal Process in the Library—a Post-PATRIOT Act Primer

Tuesday, July 17, 2:45–3:15PM
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Law librarians in all job environments
Level: Intermediate

For this session, two speakers will address the provisions of the reauthorized USA PATRIOT Act in terms of the impact on libraries. The discussion will cover the scope and effect of the revised or existing provisions for Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA) orders, national security letters, and related legal process to secure library records. Recent cases involving libraries will be examined, and statistics on the use of legal process in libraries will be discussed.

- Susan Nevelow Mart, Co-coordinator and Speaker, University of California, Hastings College of the Law Library
- Leah Sandwell-Weiss, Co-coordinator and Speaker, University of Arizona College of Law Library

J-6: Alumni: The Forgotten Patron Group

Tuesday, July 17, 3:30–4:00PM
Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Academic librarians who have a strong commitment to customer service
Level: Intermediate

The focus of most services and programs in academic law libraries is on the school's faculty and students, with little attention being spent on alumni services. Yet these same schools are quite dependent on financial contributions from their alumni for various projects, such as capital campaigns and student scholarships. Hear a discussion about the services a library can provide to alumni with the intent of strengthening the relationship between these individuals and the school. The library's role in raising funds for a library construction project will also be discussed.

- Kim Clarke, Coordinator and Speaker, University of Pacific, McGeorge School of Law, Gordon D. Schaber Law Library
- Michele Finerty, Moderator, University of Pacific, McGeorge School of Law, Gordon D. Schaber Law Library
- Margaret Arnold, University of San Francisco School of Law

W-3: How (and What) to Podcast

Saturday, July 14 (full-day workshop)
Competency: Teaching
Target Audience: Law librarians in all types of libraries interested in reaching library users and would-be users through the technology of portable audio on demand
Level: Intermediate

The Oxford American Dictionary chose "podcast" as the Word of the Year in 2005, but many librarians remain unfamiliar with podcasting and what it can do for them. For such an intensely text-based profession, that may not be surprising. But podcasting is continuing to grow, with tens of thousands of podcasts now available. Interest in podcasting is generating everything from conferences with thousands of attendees to informal "meetups" in dozens of cities across the country.

This will be a practical, hands-on workshop on the basic techniques of audio podcasting. The instructors will discuss and demonstrate a variety of hardware and software tools for producing podcasts. Topics will cover recording and editing audio, hosting services, syndication using RSS, and creative ways to use podcasting in library work. Participants will take part in a live, on-site recording of an episode of the Check This Out! podcast, as well as share ideas and critiques for developing their own library podcasts.

- James G. Milles, Coordinator, Moderator and Speaker, University at Buffalo, The State University of New York
- Connie Crosby, WeirFoulds LLP
- Rita A. Kaiser, King County Law Library
- Diane Murley, Southern Illinois University Law Library
- Lee F. Peoples, Oklahoma City University Law Library
- Dongfa Zhou, William Mitchell College of Law

Alternate Programs

Rising to the Challenge of Relevance in Legal Research Training

Monday, July 16, 2:00–3:15PM
Competency: Teaching
Level: Intermediate

An experienced legal research instructor will articulate the common and justifiable student perception that legal research classes seem unrelated to the doctrinal concepts they are learning and lack immediate and practical application to their course work. A doctrinal faculty member will describe his motivation for creating a focused research class and course book in public international law in collaboration with the international law librarian. The law librarian will describe the benefits of this collaboration for the students, faculty, and library staff. The speakers will propose guidelines for creating similar collaborative courses.

- Mary Ann Archer, Coordinator and Speaker, William Mitchell College of Law, Warren E. Burger Library
- Anthony S. Winer, William Mitchell College of Law
- William Jack, William Mitchell College of Law, Warren E. Burger Library

Filling the Seats: Marketing Legal Research Instruction with a Certificate of Excellence Program

Monday, July 16, 10:30–11:30AM
Competency: Teaching
Level: Intermediate

Academic law librarians spend hours planning instructional programs and workshops only to have no students show up. Texas Tech Law Library set out to remedy this problem by creating a Certificate of Excellence in Legal Research to motivate students to attend classes. This program will describe the steps taken and the hurdles overcome at Texas Tech to create this program including designing a curriculum, planning courses, obtaining administrative approval and faculty support, and designing a sophisticated registration and record-keeping system.

- Teresa Conaway, Coordinator, Texas Tech University School of Law Library
- Sharon Blackburn, Moderator, Texas Tech University School of Law Library
- Arturo Torres, Texas Tech University School of Law Library
- Gayle Dixon,

ALL-SIS Faculty Services Roundtable

The ALL-SIS Faculty Services Committee roundtable at AALL, Monday, July 16, 11:45 a.m. – 1 p.m. will discuss three topics:

Do We Train or Do We Provide — Do you routinely make decisions about how self-sufficient you think a professor wants (or needs) to be? Are they looking for help or for instruction? Help us identify the factors that enter into these decisions and find out how other librarians approach the issue. Moderator - Margaret Schilt

The Obsessive Reference Librarian (spin-off of the listserv discussion on boundaries) — Answering email from attorneys, faculty, students, clerks or patrons on Saturday night? Join our support group, bring your worst examples and your best suggestions. Moderator - Marianne Alcorn

What Your New Faculty Member Needs From You and the Library — What can you do for new tenure track faculty and new hires to your law school to have them succeed in their classrooms and in their scholarship. Rewards from a successful relationship are many — explore and share creative and successful strategies for new faculty support. Moderator - Adeen Postar

Each moderator will briefly introduce a topic and then we'll break up into three groups to strategize, share, and report our findings back to the entire group.

We hope to see you there!
