BUILDING YOUR LIBRARY WITH YOUR ARCHITECT: Keys to a Successful Building or Renovation Project

Are you now or will you soon be involved in a construction/renovation project in your library? If so are you prepared to work with an architect? What will the architect bring to the project, and what will be expected of you? Join us as we learn from our colleagues who have recently played key roles in law library building projects. You will have the opportunity to hear their stories as they share their tips on how to make your project a success. Also joining our panel is an architect who specializes in library buildings and renovations nationwide.

PRESENTERS:

Martha Goldman is the Library Services Manager at Jones Day in New York City and has been at the firm since 1987. From 1990 to 2005 Martha also managed the office's Records Department. Martha holds an MBA from Pace University and an MLS from Queens College.

Mark Maves, AIA, is an architect and Sr. VP of the SmithGroup. He has enjoyed working with over a dozen academic law libraries, including Vanderbilt, George Washington, and New York Law School. Mark's firm has also worked with a number of law firms, including Wilmer Cutler Hale & Door and Foley Lardner.

William Mills is Professor of Legal Research and Associate Librarian for Information Services at New York Law School where he has been since 1989. Bill received his MSLS from Columbia University and his JD from Fordham University.

Lynn Wishart is the Associate Dean for Library Services, Professor of Legal Research and Director of the Law Library at the Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law. Lynn received her AMLS from the University of Michigan and her JD from Washington University. Lynn has been at Cardozo since 1984.
