

AALL17 - Research and Reference Services Librarian
Nova Southeastern University

Nova Southeastern University (NSU) is the nation's ninth-largest, not-for-profit, independent university, with more than 25,000 students and 158,000 alumni; a sprawling, 314-acre Fort Lauderdale-Davie campus; and a presence in 12 countries around the world. Through five decades of explosive growth, our reputation for academic excellence and innovation continues to flourish. Founded in 1964, the university offers undergraduate degrees, graduate and professional degrees, and certificate programs to full-and part-time students in medicine, health sciences, computer sciences, law, education, psychology, business, marine biology, and more.

The Research and Reference Services Librarian provides outreach and reference services and creates, enhances, and furthers services offered to faculty, students, alumni, the local bar, and the public.

The first priority of all members of the Law Library team is to serve the Law Library and College of Law's faculty, students, and patrons. Each team member will not be limited by this job description in an effort to assist our constituency, but will perform tasks assigned by supervisor(s). Team members will be readily available, visible, and accessible to faculty, students and patrons, and if unable to answer an inquiry, they will ensure assistance is provided by another member of the Law Library team.

Job duties may include:

1. Provides legal research, reference assistance and instruction.
2. Creates and promotes innovative services.
3. Conducts workshops and research instruction on legal research topics.

4. Prepares user guides, bibliographies, and instructional materials for legal topics, and presentations and articles for legal education.

5. Serves as a member of the Panza Maurer Law Library Faculty Liaison program.

About Nova Southeastern University

Located on a beautiful 314-acre campus in Fort Lauderdale, Nova Southeastern University (NSU) has more than 24,000 students and is the largest independent institution of higher education in Florida. NSU is one of only 37 institutions holding the dual classification of "Community Engaged" and "High Research" by the Carnegie Foundation. In 1964, what was then called Nova University was chartered as a graduate institution in the physical and social sciences. Over time, Nova added programs in law, education, business, psychology, computer science, and oceanography, and, in 1972, introduced its first off-campus course of study, in education. Soon, Nova became nationally recognized for its innovative distance learning programs. Today, field-based programs are located throughout Florida, in 23 states, and at selected international sites.
