

Awards & Grants

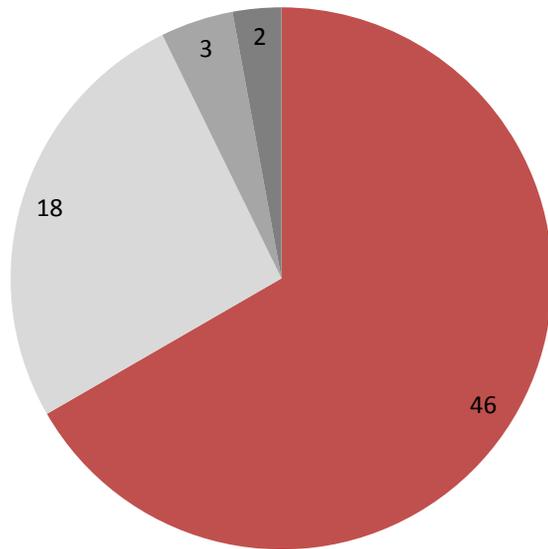

- 1 - Essential to have on new site; should be on Home Page
- 2 - Essential to have on new site; not necessary to have on Home Page if it's easy to find
- 3 - Should be on the new site, but OK if buried in a menu
- 4 - Would be nice to have on new site, but not essential

Committee Pages

- 1 - Essential to have on new site; should be on Home Page
- 2 - Essential to have on new site; not necessary to have on Home Page if it's easy to find
- 3 - Should be on the new site, but OK if buried in a menu

News & Events

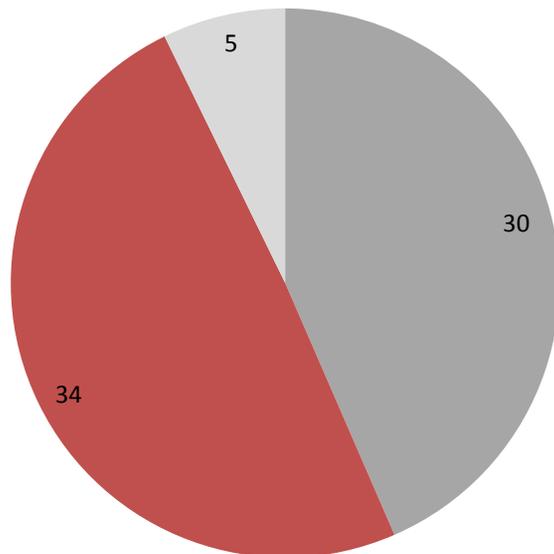

■ 1 - Essential to have on new site; should be on Home Page

■ 2 - Essential to have on new site; not necessary to have on Home Page if it's easy to find

■ 3 - Should be on the new site, but OK if buried in a menu

■ 4 - Would be nice to have on new site, but not essential

Resources for Members

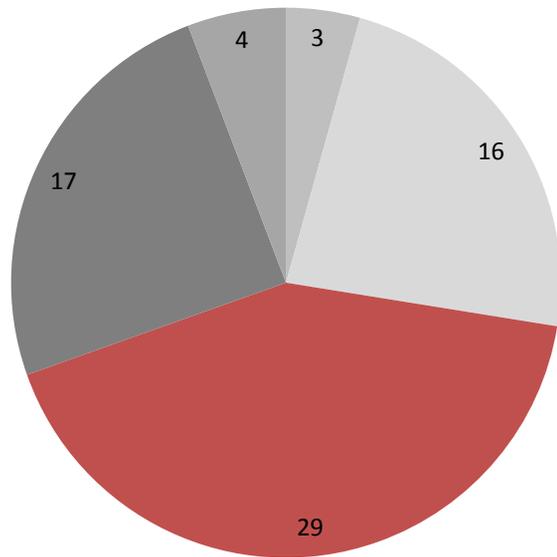

■ 1 - Essential to have on new site; should be on Home Page

■ 2 - Essential to have on new site; not necessary to have on Home Page if it's easy to find

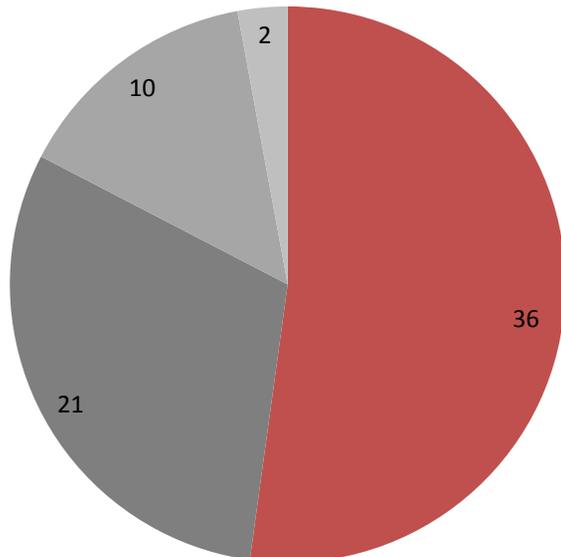

■ 3 - Should be on the new site, but OK if buried in a menu

Links to Other Sites

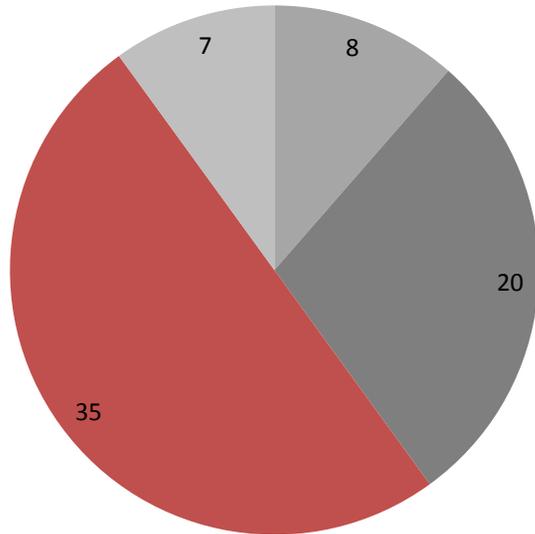

- 1 - Essential to have on new site; should be on Home Page
- 2 - Essential to have on new site; not necessary to have on Home Page if it's easy to find
- 3 - Should be on the new site, but OK if buried in a menu
- 4 - Would be nice to have on new site, but not essential
- 5 - Not needed on the new site

Information 'About' ALL-SIS

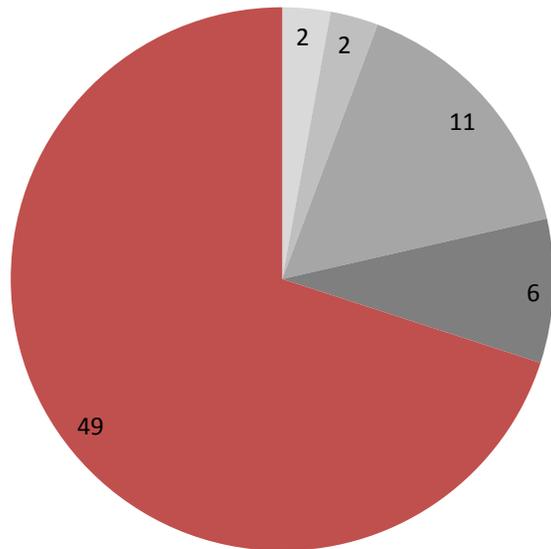

- 1 - Essential to have on new site; should be on Home Page
- 2 - Essential to have on new site; not necessary to have on Home Page if it's easy to find
- 3 - Should be on the new site, but OK if buried in a menu
- 4 - Would be nice to have on new site, but not essential

Social Media Options

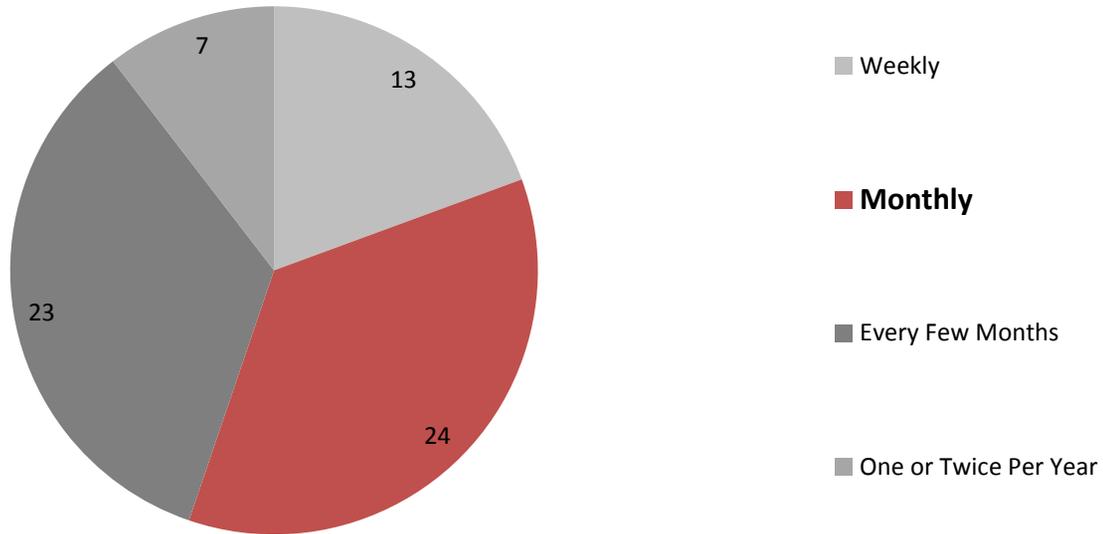

- 1 = Essential to have on new site, and should be on every page
- 2 = essential to have on the new site, but doesn't need to be on every page
- 3 = would be nice to have somewhere on the site, but not essential
- 4 = not needed on the new sit

How often do you use Social Media to share things related to ALL-SIS ?

- Daily
- Monthly
- Every Few Months
- Once or Twice Per Year
- Never

How Often Do You Visit the ALL-SIS Website?

*only 69 people responded to this question out of the 70 who took the survey

When asked, “What do you like best about the ALL-SIS site?” people responded with the following:

- Lots of content available
- That it's available for quick look up of the above mentioned items (contact information, newsletter & events).
- It exists.
- Color scheme
- simplicity
- Pretty basic, but has most everything I need.
- easy to find all materials. No multi-layered menus to navigate.
- The Legal Research Sourcebook rocks!
- it's simple
- the sourcebook
- easy to find in the midst of other AALL resources. don't take that away
- I can search for members' contact information.
- I find it fairly easy to navigate around
- The Sourcebook, Collection Development Policies, and Toolkits (essentially, collaborations among members)
- Not a whole lot. It's hard to find stuff and most of the links are out of date.
- The current site makes me cringe.
- It really is full of information, so I can't imagine needing something that I can't find there.
- lots of information available
- I appreciate helpful resources such as the faculty services toolkit. Other useful resources include surveys, etc., that show how other libraries handle shared situations/problems (ex. teaching legal research, dealing with copyright, marketing library services)
- Search functionality.
- Member resources: e.g. Sourcebook for Teaching Legal Research
- it's pretty easy to navigate
- Great collection of resources
- everything is there
- I like having the committee rosters easily accessible and the information on advancing your career, for example I've thoroughly read the information on how best to pursue an academic library director position.
- The Committee pages, especially when I am a Committee member; the resources prepared by committees; the ALL-SIS newsletter page.
- It exists
- I'm pretty neutral about it. Nothing stands out.
- Sourcebook for teaching
- Ease of navigation

People were given the opportunity to provide additional feedback and they responded with the following:

- I think it's the aim of AALL generally to have all social media/collaboration to go through the "My Communities" section of AALLnet so you might want to consider that avenue before investing a lot of resources in promoting social media through the ALL-SIS website itself
- Thanks for asking for our opinions.
- I go to it to get information about the SIS and its committees since this is information that is not available elsewhere. Please make keeping it up to date a priority.
- Why is the screen in "portrait"? There is a lot of wasted space on the screen. 2. I hope that all materials can be covered on one screen, so we do not need to scroll up or down. The homepage should just be an outline/first step to click on for more information.
- Please keep up to date with minutes of meetings and other things. It would be great if the sourcebook were on a more user-friendly platform. I'd like to be able to search the full-text of things. I'm so used to this website that I can easily find what I need.
- The Facebook "Like" button tracks visitors, even if they are not logged on to Facebook. It is almost ubiquitous, so I won't avoid websites with it, but I get annoyed that it's there.
- I would love it if it could have links to substantive materials; training handouts; sample policies (collection development, access services, patrons, etc.)
- Social media impact (and usage) is incredibly overrated. I'd suggest that links should be available but any real content (discussions, posting new events, etc) should be on the site and not simply put out via social media outlets.
- Needs to be updated regularly. Not blaming the webmaster -- that's a big job. Maybe AALL needs to give more access to ALL-SIS committees?
- <http://xkcd.com/773/>
- I don't use social media much, but many of our younger members and reference librarians do, so it is essential to keep them as engaged as possible.
- Sending out a reminder each year that it exists might be a good idea. As someone new to librarianship, I thought most everything was on the AALL site, and would not think about going to find the SIS site, although it would be useful often.