Robert Crown

RCLL is named in memory of Robert Crown (b. 1921, d. 1969), a business executive. Robert was the first of three sons born to Henry & Rebecca Crown of Chicago, Illinois. The second son was Lester (b. 1925); the third son was John (b. 1929, d. 1997).

Henry Crown (b. 1896, d. 1990) was an industrialist and philanthropist whose generous donation to Stanford Law School in the late 1960s enabled the building of SLS Crown Quadrangle, completed in 1975.

REFERENCE & INSTRUCTIONAL SERVICES

Inside RCLL—Please feel free to visit us in person. We would be delighted to give you a tour of RCLL and acquaint you with everything we have to offer. We'd also like to know about your research interests.

Outside RCLL—We can visit you in your office to help you access resources. We can show you how to access resources from off campus too—while at home, or travelling, etc.

See: <http://library.stanford.edu/apcproxy/index.html>

See also: <http://library.stanford.edu/ezproxy>

In Your Classroom—Whether it is introducing students to the library catalog, familiarizing them with LexisNexis, Westlaw and Bloomberg Law, or delving into specialized databases and current awareness products, we are eager to assist you in developing students' research skills.

BORROWING SERVICES

We will check-out and deliver library materials to your office. We will pick-up library materials you are finished with; simply leave them in your office "OUT" box for us. We will renew library materials for you too.

INTERLIBRARY LOAN (ILL)

RCLL maintains reciprocal relationships with libraries around the globe. Library materials not available at Stanford campus libraries may be obtained through our interlibrary loan service.

See: <https://www.stanford.edu/group/law/library/illform/illr.fb>

COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT

It is your involvement that makes us strong. We encourage you to make recommendations for additions for the RCLL collection. Works created by members of the SLS community are especially welcome.

COURSEWORK & DIGITAL RESERVES

CourseWork is Stanford's online course management system. We create and maintain CourseWork sites for each course you teach. These sites are for course syllabi, readings, announcements, discussion space, etc.

See: <http://coursework.stanford.edu>

Digital Reserves is our online, password-protected digital repository. It holds many years' worth of SLS instructors' syllabi, exams, model answers, etc. We encourage you to contribute to it.

See: <http://digitalreserves.law.stanford.edu>

COURSE RESERVES

For your courses, you may place materials you're assigning on reserve; students then check them out at the 1st floor Loan Desk. Before each quarter begins, we will ask you what, if anything, you'd like to place on reserve. Materials may be placed on reserve any time during the term. We automatically place copies of all required texts on Course Reserve.

FACULTY BIBLIOGRAPHY

Your publications are a source of great pride for SLS. We strive to capture them in the SLS Faculty (and Fellows) Bibliography we maintain. Please send us cites or content and we will ensure it is properly recorded.

SLS ARCHIVES

The SLS Archives is the repository for the materials/records of enduring value created by or pertaining to SLS and its faculty, students, staff and alumni.

See: <http://archives.law.stanford.edu>

ONLINE CATALOG

SearchWorks—The online catalog for all holdings of all Stanford libraries, including RCLL, is SearchWorks (formerly known as Socrates). The catalog is a portal to countless resources such as databases, books, journals, periodicals, videos, maps, etc.

See: <http://searchworks.stanford.edu>

Databases—Part of SearchWorks, the databases page allows you to browse or keyword-search through any of Stanford's almost 1,200 databases; the content in which represents all scholarly disciplines.

See: <http://searchworks.stanford.edu/databases>

E-Journals—Part of SearchWorks, the e-journals page allows you to browse or keyword-search for electronic versions of your favorite journals.

See: <http://ejournals.stanford.edu>

LEGAL DATABASES

LexisNexis, Westlaw and Bloomberg Law—We are happy to set up accounts for faculty and staff.

Other Notable Legal Research Databases—

We subscribe to a growing number of online databases. Some notable ones include: ALM Legal Intelligence, CEB OnLAW, CourtLink, Eighteenth Century Collections Online, Foreign Law Guide, HeinOnline, Justis International Law Reports and UK Statutes and Statutory Instruments, Knowledge Mosaic, Making of Modern Law, Max Planck Encyclopedia of Public International Law, RIA Checkpoint, and Supreme Court Records and Briefs. These contain, among other things, the full text of thousands of treatises, briefs, numerous journals and newspapers, as well as bibliographic information on a wide variety of subjects.

See: <http://www.law.stanford.edu/organizations/offices/robert-crown-law-library/legal-databases>

CURRENT AWARENESS

SLS Today—We compile SLS Today, an email we send every weekday containing the latest news of SLS. It showcases the publications and media appearances of SLS faculty, alumni, staff, students and notable friends. To recommend something for inclusion, or to be added to the mailing list, please let us know.

Personalized Search Alerts—You have access to current awareness services through Westlaw, LexisNexis and Smart CILP. We can help set up daily/weekly/monthly receipt of preset database searches for you.

Journal Routing—We will route journals directly to you. Please let us know which journals you would like routed to your office or which electronic table of contents you would like sent to your email address.

BNA Reporting—We offer daily and weekly BNA Reporters which provide extensive updates in diverse areas such as banking, healthcare, international trade, and patent law. See: <https://library.law.stanford.edu/BNA/index.html>
