

Teaching Specialized Legal Research: Business Associations

By Kris Helge & Terri Lynn Helge. 29 Legal Reference Services Q. 51 (2010).

Article Categories: Advanced & Subject-Specific Legal Research Instruction; Course Creation & Design

Keywords: Advanced Legal Research; Assessments; Bibliography; Course Design; Legal Research; Instruction; Secondary Sources; Subject-Specific Legal Research; Syllabus

Reviewer's Summary:

The authors begin by explaining substantive law regarding business associations. This includes about ten pages that begin with an overview of the forms of business associations, go on to describe details on the formation of partnerships, corporations and LLCs, the limitation of liability of various forms, governance and fiduciary duties, and end with taxation. The next section of the article is a model syllabus for Advanced Legal Research for Business Associations, complete with suggested sources and assignments that are numbered to correspond to the bibliography that makes up the final section of the article. The bibliography includes twenty-five sources, each annotated with a description and a suggestion of the types of assignments that can be given with each source.

Summarized by: Cheryl Kelly Fischer, UCLA Law Library, in 2019.