These activities were used in multiple sections of an asynchronous basic research course during the Fall of 2020. Included is the practice problem, the discussion board prompt, a screenshot of one of the discussion boards, and a partial sample answer.

For this weekly assignment the students were given a research problem. They then were directed to a discussion board prompt where they were asked to go to the free Kialo website and post pro and con arguments. The following week we posted a partial answer, which they then could use to compare their work. It also sped up the time involved for providing individual feedback.
