AALL / YOUR LEGAL
KNOWLEDGE NETWORK™

The Distinguished Service Award, established in 1984, recognizes extended and sustained service to law librarianship, exemplary service to the Association, and/or contributions to the professional literature. The award was renamed for Marian Gould Gallagher in 1990. Gallagher Award recipients are additionally recognized with induction into the AALL Hall of Fame.

Mark E. Estes

Law Library Director
Bernard E. Witkin Alameda County
Law Library
Oakland, California

Mark E. Estes has been in law librarianship since 1978, when he began his career as head law librarian and assistant professor of law at the University of LaVerne College of Law. He became the director of library services in 1980 at Holme Roberts & Owen LLP, which is now Bryan Cave HRO. While at Holme Roberts & Owen, Estes worked to establish a print collection, then worked to convert the collection to an electronic format. In 2008, he assumed his current position as law library director of the Bernard E. Witkin Alameda County Law Library.

Estes has dedicated a good portion of his career to the Association since joining in 1977. He served as AALL President from 1992–1993. Additionally, he chaired the Economic Status of Law Librarians Committee, the Annual Meeting Educational Programming Committee, and the Constitution and Bylaws Committee, to name a few. He has also been president of the Southwestern Association of Law Libraries and BayNet, and has been an Executive Board Member for the Colorado Association of Law Libraries. Estes was previously inducted into the AALL Hall of Fame in 2016. He also served as editor for Trends in Law Library Management & Technology from 1994–2001, and was the editorial director of AALL Spectrum from 2007–2013. Additionally, he has published in several journals including Law Library Journal, Library Journal, and National Law Journal.

Claire M. Germain

Associate Dean for Legal Information &
Clarence J. TeSelle Professor of Law Emerita
University of Florida Levin College of Law
Gainesville, Florida

Claire M. Germain has been a member of AALL since 1977. She began her career in the U.S. as a law librarian in 1980 at Duke University School of Law Library. In July 1993, Germain made the move to Ithaca, New York, to work at Cornell Law School, where she was the Edward Cornell Law Librarian and professor of law. While at Cornell, she also served as director of the Dual Degree Programs for Paris and Berlin. She became professor emerita at Cornell in 2011. In August of that year, Germain assumed the role of associate dean for Legal Information and the Clarence J. TeSelle professor of law emerita at the University of Florida (UF) Levin College of Law. While at UF, she served as the director for the Paris/Montpellier Summer Program in 2016.

Germain was elected as AALL President for the 2005–2006 term. Prior to her term as president, she chaired the AALL/Library of Congress Task Force on Preservation of Digital Law, and the Foreign, Comparative and International Law Committee, to name a few. She is fluent in French, English, and German. She was also very active in several international organizations, including the International Federation of Library Associations, where she served as chair of the law libraries section. Her book, Germain's Transnational Law Research: A Guide for Attorneys, was the 1992 recipient of the Joseph L. Andrews Legal Literature Award.

Margaret K. Maes

Executive Director
Legal Information Preservation Alliance
Bloomington, Indiana

Margaret K. Maes, known to many as Margie, began her career in law librarianship as a law firm librarian in Denver, Colorado. Following her time there, she worked at the National Center for State Courts before making the move to Cornell University Law Library. In 1990, Maes started at the University of Minnesota Law Library as the assistant director for Technical Services. In 2001, she began her position as associate director for Information Resources at the University of St. Thomas Schoenecker Law Library, where she also served as interim director for about a year. She began her position as the executive director of the Legal Information Preservation Alliance in May 2008.

Maes has been dedicated to librarianship for many years, beginning her memberships with both AALL and the American Library Association in 1975. She served as AALL President from 1999–2000, and served as AALL’s Vendor Liaison for five years. In this role, she worked to improve the association’s relationships with vendors and to assist in solving any vendor-related issues. Maes has previously been honored as a recipient of the AALL Hall of Fame Award, two Presidential Certificates of Appreciation from AALL, the Law Librarianship Award for Outstanding Service from the Minnesota Association of Law Libraries, and the Renee D. Chapman Memorial Award for Outstanding Contributions in Technical Services Law Librarianship from the Technical Services Special Interest Section.

Victoria K. Trotta

Associate Dean
Ross-Blakley Law Library
Phoenix, Arizona

Victoria K. Trotta, “Tory,” is currently the associate dean for the Ross-Blakley Law Library. Trotta has been active in law librarianship for more than 40 years, beginning her career as an acquisitions librarian at the University of Southern California Law Center Library. After moving to Arizona in 1988, she made the transition to county law librarian, followed by firm librarian. Trotta returned to academia in August 1996 when she accepted the position of associate director and head of public services for Ross-Blakley Law Library at Arizona State University (ASU). After serving as the interim director for about 18 months, she assumed the role of director of the law library in July 1999, and her current title of associate dean in September 2002.

After joining AALL in July 1976, she became an active presenter, speaking at both AALL and Association of American Law Schools annual meetings. She served as a member of the Executive Board for the Legal Information Preservation Alliance from 2010-2014. She was also the faculty advisor for the ASU College of Law Moot Court Executive Board. She has previously been honored with the 1997-1998 Arizona Association of Law Libraries Distinguished Service Award. Trotta has been an active member of many AALL committees, including the Professional Development Committee, Executive Board Strategic Planning Committee, and the AALLNET Strategic Planning Committee. She also served as AALL President from 2004-2005.

Michael Widener has been the rare book librarian at Yale Law School's Lillian Goldman Law Library since 2006, after serving for 14 years as head of special collections at the Tarlton Law Library at the University of Texas in Austin. He is also on the faculty of the Rare Book School at the University of Virginia, where he has taught a course on "Law Books: History & Connoisseurship" since 2010. He served as the chair for AALL's Legal History & Rare Books Special Interest Section from 2012-2013, and has given several talks at conferences in the U.S., Brazil, Italy, Mexico, and Sweden on the topic.

Mark S. Weiner has been a professor of law at Rutgers Law School since 2002, and is an active author and lecturer on legal, historical, and humanistic topics. He holds a JD from Yale Law School, a PhD in American Studies, also from Yale, and an AB in American Studies from Stanford University with honors and distinction. His book Black Trials: Citizenship from the Beginnings of Slavery to the End of Caste, received the Silver Gavel Award from the American Bar Association. He has been a Fulbright Scholar to Iceland and Austria, and this year will serve as Fulbright Uppsala University Distinguished Chair in American Studies in Uppsala, Sweden.

Law's Picture Books: The Yale Law Library Collection, published by Talbot Publishing, is a catalogue companion to a groundbreaking exhibition of the same name, sponsored by Yale Law School's Lillian Goldman Law Library at the Grotier Club in New York City. The book defines how illustrations or images (for example, Lady Justice) bridge the gap between the words or text of legal books and their use and understanding from the fourteenth century to present.

The Hall of Fame Award, established in 2009, recognizes significant, substantial, and long-standing contributions to the profession and service to the Association.*

George S. Grossman
Professor of Law Emeritus
University of California
Davis School of Law
Portland, Oregon

George S. Grossman began his legal career with the American Bar Foundation, even before he graduated from law school in 1966. In addition, his work in law libraries began before completing his Master of Library Science in 1971. Throughout his career, he has held many positions, including law librarian, library director, and professor of law in Utah, Minnesota, Illinois, and California, and he has influenced law students and lawyers throughout the country as editor of the “Library Highlights” column of the American Bar Association (ABA) Section of Legal Education and Admission to the Bar.

Coming from the technical side of libraries, Grossman’s interests were always forward-thinking, and his works highlight his ability to peer into the future of law librarianship. He was also deeply concerned about social justice issues. He was a founder of the Contemporary Social Problems Special Interest Section and had a special interest in the rights of Native Americans, publishing extensively on this topic.

While not trained as an architect, he was widely known as ‘Mr. Law Library Buildings.’ He served as building consultant to more than 35 law schools. His AALL participation included membership in committees dealing with the preservation and indexing of periodical literature, ethics, and employment practices. For the ABA, he served on the Committee on Law School Facilities and on the Committee on Libraries.

Joan S. Howland

Associate Dean and Roger F. Noreen Professor of Law
University of Minnesota Law School
Minneapolis, Minnesota

Joan S. Howland is the Roger F. Noreen Professor of Law and associate dean for information and technology at the University of Minnesota Law School. Howland has held prior positions at the University of California (UC) Berkeley, Harvard, and Stanford Law School Libraries. She also teaches American Indian Legal History, a seminar on Magna Carta and the Evolution of Anglo-American Law, and has taught Law and Business.

Her AALL activities are extensive: she served as chair of the Education, Scholarship, Diversity, and National Legal Resources Committee, as well as chair for the 1990 AALL Annual Meeting Program Committee, and as Local Arrangements chair for the 1992 AALL Annual Meeting.

Outside of her work with AALL, she has advanced the causes of law librarianship and legal research with the American Association of Law Schools (she was the recipient of the 2017 Award for Excellence in Legal Education), the American Law Institute, the American Indian Library Association, and the ABA. Additionally, Howland was recently elected to a three-year term in the ABA's House of Delegates, representing the Section on Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar.

Of great importance to law libraries was her contribution to AALL's digital white paper Defining ROI: Law Library Best Practices, with her article "Show Me the Value!: Creating, Measuring, and Promoting ROI in Academic Law Libraries."

Sally H. Wise

Professor of Law Emerita and
Director of the Law Library Emerita
University of Miami School of Law
Coral Gables, Florida

Sally H. Wise is professor of law emerita and director of the law library emerita at the University of Miami School of Law. Before joining the University of Miami School of Law, Wise held several positions, including director of the Marvin & Virginia Schmid Law Library and professor of law at the University of Nebraska College of Law.

Wise's 40 years of work in law libraries and on behalf of law librarianship have brought her into contact with a wide range of colleagues. In addition to her administrative responsibilities, Wise has "taught legal research to decades of law students and has been a leader in helping to define basic competencies in the field."

AALL has greatly benefited from her activities. She has held positions ranging from member of the Special Committee on Legal Research Competency, to chair of the Law School Research Competency Task Force. She was also chair of the Academic Law Libraries Special Interest Section. She served as an AALL Executive Board member from 2007-2010, and served on the Executive Board Finance & Budget Committee from 2008-2010. She has been active in several regional organizations, including the Dallas Association of Law Libraries and the Mid-America Association of Law Libraries, to name a few. Her expertise has been acknowledged by the American Association of Law Schools and the Postsecondary Education Libraries and Resource Centers of Nebraska.
