MARIAN GOULD GALLAGHER DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD

The Distinguished Service Award, established in 1984, recognizes extended and sustained service to law librarianship, exemplary service to the Association, and/or contributions to the professional literature. The award was renamed for Marian Gould Gallagher in 1990. Gallagher Award recipients are additionally recognized with induction into the AALL Hall of Fame.

James S. Heller

Director of the Law Library and
Professor of Law
College of William & Mary
Williamsburg, Virginia

Jim Heller served as director of the law library and professor of law at William & Mary from 1988-2019. Prior to this, he was director of the law library and professor of law at the University of Idaho (1983-1988), head of the Civil Division Library of the U.S. Department of Justice (1980-1983), and associate law librarian/head of public services at the George Washington University Law Library (1977-1980). On a professional level, Heller joined AALL in 1978. He served as AALL President from 1998-1999, as president of the Southeastern Chapter of AALL (SEAALL) from 1996-1997, and as president of the Virginia Chapter from 1994-1995. Heller chaired several AALL committees, including the Awards Committee, the Copyright Committee (four times), the Education Committee, and the LexisNexis Call for Papers Committee.

He has written extensively on legal issues and librarianship, especially copyright law and collection development. He has presented at numerous state, national, and international meetings and conferences over the last 35 years, including AALL, SEAALL, and Virginia Association of Law Libraries; the American Library Association, and Idaho Library Association; the British and Irish Association of Law Libraries and Canadian Association of Law Libraries; the Armed Forces Staff College; and more recently at the Chinese and American Forum on Legal Information and Law Libraries.

Kenneth J. Hirsh
Director of the Law Library and
Professor of Practice
Robert S. Marx Law Library
University of Cincinnati College of Law
Cincinnati, Ohio

Kenneth J. Hirsh, known to many as “Ken” from the Computing Services Special Interest Section’s (CS-SIS) annual Karaoke with Ken, is retiring this summer as director of the Robert S. Marx Law Library and professor of practice at the University of Cincinnati College of Law. Hirsh practiced law in Florida for 10 years before entering what was then the School of Library and Information Studies at Florida State University. He joined AALL as a student member in 1989, and later that year began work as a reference librarian at Duke University Law School. While at Duke, Hirsh set up the University’s first PC local area network for students and founded one of the earliest computing services departments at a law school, becoming its manager in 1993. He also helped launch Duke’s website in the fall of 1995. He was appointed director of the law library and information technology at the University of Cincinnati College of Law in 2009.

Hirsh has served in a number of leadership roles within AALL since joining in 1989, including on the Executive Board and the Executive Board Finance & Budget Committee, to name a few. He is a past president of the Southeastern Chapter of the American Association of Law Libraries (SEAALL), and served as president from 2007-2008, receiving the chapter’s Service to SEAALL Award in 2015. AALL named its distinguished service award in the area of computing services after him. Hirsh is also active within the Center for Computer-Assisted Legal Education (CALI) and served on the CALI Board of Directors for 12 years. He received the CALI Excellence in Service Award in 2000. In 2013, Hirsh was named one of the Fastcase 50, honoring the law’s

Jacquelyn J. Jurkins

Law Librarian, Director
Multnomah Law Library
Portland, Oregon

smartest and most courageous innovators, techies, visionaries, and leaders.

Jacquelyn J. Jurkins is the director of the Multnomah County Law Library in Oregon, a position she took on in 1964. In 2014, her title changed to Emeritus; however, she remains on the Library's Board of Directors and is currently working on special projects. Jurkins received her JD from the University of Wisconsin Law School in 1952, followed by a Master of Laws in 1954. Her first law library position was as assistant librarian at the Washington Supreme Court Library, followed by the role of international and foreign law librarian at the University of Washington. She became director of the Colorado Supreme Court Library in 1962. From 1967 until 1972, she was the acting law librarian and a professor at Northwestern School of Law at Lewis & Clark College in Portland, Oregon.

Jurkins joined AALL at the insistence of her mentor Marian Gould Gallagher in 1960. Since then she has been involved in numerous committees, including serving as AALL President from 1984-1985. In 2008, she received the Presidential Certificate of Appreciation, and was inducted into the AALL Hall of Fame in 2011. She was also awarded the Government Law Libraries Special Interest Section's Bethany J. Ochal Award for Distinguished Service in 2018. Jurkins was one of the founders of the Western Pacific Chapter of the American Association of Law Libraries in 1968, where she also served as the president from 1971-1973. She has also been active outside AALL. She was considered the "unofficial" director of the Multnomah Bar Association until 1971. In 1991, she was honored by the Multnomah County Sheriff's Office for her work with the

Darcy Kirk

Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and Distinguished Professor of Law
University of Connecticut School of Law
Hartford, Connecticut

county's jail law library.

Darcy Kirk joined the University of Connecticut (UConn) Law faculty in 1996, and just two months before the opening of the law library she was hired as director. A nationally recognized expert in her field, associate dean Kirk directed all library operations and provided oversight for information systems serving the entire Law School community until August 2018. In 2014, Kirk was named associate dean of academic affairs at the Law School. She moved to that position fulltime in August 2018 upon leaving the law library. A tenured professor since 2000, she also teaches Advanced Legal Research, Higher Education Law, and Access to Justice.

She has held leadership positions in several professional organizations, including AALL, which she joined in 1981. Her AALL leadership experience is vast—she served as president from 2011-2012, and secretary from 2005-2008, and has served on the following committees: Awards Committee, Nominations Committee, and the Bylaws Committee, to name a few. Kirk also served as treasurer and as a member of the executive committee for the New England Law Library Consortium. She is also past president of the Law Librarians of New England. A frequent presenter at AALL and other professional conferences, Kirk speaks on teaching legal research skills and many

JOSEPH L. ANDREWS LEGAL LITERATURE AWARD

Established in 1967 in honor of Joseph L. Andrews, reference librarian at the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the Joseph L. Andrews Legal Literature Award recognizes significant textual contributions to legal literature.

Harris County Law Library

Houston, Texas

Pro Se Litigant Handbook and Manual para Litigantes Pro Se

Pro Se Litigant Handbook was facilitated by colleagues who worked together at the Harris County Law Library. They were able to produce a unique, bilingual publication that may be duplicated across other jurisdictions. This publication is accessible not only because it is available in both English and Spanish, but also because the law library has made it available across numerous formats (e.g., print, PDF, flipbook). The inspiration behind this project was a district court judge lamenting that a better system should exist to ensure “individuals who could not afford a lawyer did not suffer because of their inability to pay.” Adoption of the handbook has spread rapidly among local judges, attorneys, the bar association, and to an outreach hotline program staffed by volunteers (LegalLine).

The Harris County Law Library is a public law library that serves the legal information needs of pro se litigants, legal professionals, the judiciary, county, and other government officials. To fulfill its mission, the Law Library is committed to providing free access to a comprehensive legal research and reference collection, in print and digital formats, and offering educational programs for all patrons.

Celebrating Diversity: A Legacy of Minority Leadership in the American Association of Law Libraries (2nd edition)

other topics including, recently, the Uniform Electronic Legal Material Act.

 Co-Authors: Dr. Yvonne J. Chandler, Vicente E. Garces, Dennis C. Kim-Prieto, Carol Avery Nicholson, and Dr. Michele A. L. Villagran.*

Celebrating Diversity builds upon the foundation of the first edition by providing new insights including comparative survey data and profiles highlighting the accomplishments of participating law librarians. Documenting and promoting the contributions of minority law librarians to AALL, and to law librarianship more generally, is necessary in order to ensure we continue to attract and retain the best and brightest the profession has to offer. A percentage of the royalties supports the AALL and Thomson Reuters George A. Strait Minority Scholarship, which has been a long-standing funding opportunity.

Shamika D. Dalton is the associate director for public services and professor of legal research at the University of Florida Levin College of Law. In addition to co-authoring Celebrating Diversity, Dalton has presented on race at national and regional conferences and has written articles on the topic in AALL Spectrum, College & Research News, and Law Library Journal. She has served as the chair of AALL's Diversity & Inclusion Committee, as a member-at-large of the Black Caucus of the American Association of Law Libraries, and as a member of the George A. Strait Scholarship & Fellows Committee. In 2017, Dalton founded the Southeastern Chapter of the American Association of Law Libraries Diversity

The Hall of Fame Award, established in 2009, recognizes significant, substantial, and long-standing contributions to the profession and service to the Association.*

& Inclusion Committee in an effort to promote diversity and inclusion, and to offer programming on diversity issues on a regional level.

Until his retirement at the end of June 2019, Paul George served as associate dean for curriculum development and the Biddle Law library at the University of Pennsylvania Law School. A graduate of Duke University School of Law, George started his legal career at the Land of Lincoln Legal Assistance Foundation in Champaign, Illinois. His first professional librarian position came in 1985 at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, where he worked as a reference librarian for several years before moving across the country in 1994 to Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Throughout his 34-year career, he has served on several AALL committees and has presented programs at numerous conferences. He has chaired AALL's Ad Hoc Committee on Open Access, the Nominations Committee, and the Uniform Citations Committee, and also served as the Program Chair for the 2009 Annual Meeting in Washington, DC. Beyond AALL, George has contributed to the law library profession by serving as chair of the Legal Information Preservation Alliance (LIPA), as president of NELLCO, and as president of the Southern California Association of Law Libraries. In addition, he has chaired the American Bar Association's (ABA) Law Library Committee

Jolande Goldberg

Senior Cataloging Policy Specialist for Law Classification, Policy & Standards
Library of Congress
Alexandria, Virginia

as well as the Association of American Law Schools Section on Law Libraries.

Born in Germany, Dr. Jolande Goldberg was educated and trained as a lawyer at the Universities of Munich and Heidelberg where she graduated with a Doctor Juris Utriusque (PhD), and at Georgetown University. Until her immigration to the U.S. in 1967, she served as research associate to law faculty and legal co-editor of the Deutsches Rechtswörterbuch (Dictionary of Historical German Legal Terminology) under the auspices of the Academy of Sciences and Humanities in Heidelberg, Germany. She joined the Library of Congress in 1967, where she currently serves as senior cataloging policy specialist for law classification, policy, and standards. As the Library's senior law classification specialist, she developed the major part of the Library of Congress schedules for Class K-KZ (Law), encompassing ancient and religious systems, and international law and relations. She also developed modern classification techniques for better class structure and collection alignment through Classification Web.

For the poorly understood category of Indigenous Peoples Law, Goldberg pioneered an electronic portal, a one-stop access tool for web resources. A massive undertaking, it involved cooperation of private and public institutions, and is now widely known as Indigenous Law Portal and visited by more than 160 countries.

Goldberg has been a member of AALL since 1970. Among her many accomplishments,

Robert Oaks, Retired
Chief Library and Records Officer
Latham & Watkins LLP
Washington, DC

she has been awarded the 2011 AALL Distinguished Lectureship Award, the 2002 AALL Joseph L. Andrews Legal Literature Award, AALL's Renee D. Chapman Memorial Award in 1999, and the ALA/CQ Marta Lange/Congressional Quarterly Award.

Robert "Bob" Oaks began working in his first library at the National League of Cities-US Conference of Mayors when he was a junior in college. His first law firm library position came a few years later when he was hired at O'Melveny & Myers. While there he earned his MLIS degree from Catholic University of America. That degree was followed by a 27-year stint at Latham & Watkins. Oaks's job grew from manager of the DC office library with one library assistant to chief library and records officer of the firm, directing more than 200 employees in library, records, conflicts, litigation services, and knowledge management.

Oaks was actively involved in the Law Librarians' Society of Washington, D.C. (LLSDC), and served as President of the Private Law Libraries SIS, and helped found and serve as the first President of the Legislative Librarians Special Interest Section. Oaks was one of the founding members of the LLSDC Internet Users Group and hosted the first-ever presentation on the internet for LLSDC members. An active member of AALL since 1978, Oaks has served on a number of committees, including the Legislative
